From Daredevil to Skydiving Legend

Wally McDoogle was born in 1947 in a small town in Iowa. As a child, he was always drawn to adventure and danger. He loved to climb trees, jump off cliffs, and ride his bike as fast as he could. When he was 18 years old, he joined the Army and served in Vietnam. After his tour of duty, he returned home and began working as a construction worker.

One day, McDoogle saw a skydiving video and was immediately hooked. He knew that he had to try it for himself. He took his first skydiving lesson in 1971 and was instantly addicted to the sport. He loved the feeling of freefall and the challenge of pushing his limits.

McDoogle quickly became one of the most skilled skydivers in the world. He began competing in skydiving competitions and soon began winning medals. In 1979, he won the World Skydiving Championships in the accuracy category. He continued to compete for many years and set several world records, including the record for the highest altitude skydive.

A Life of Adventure

In addition to his skydiving career, McDoogle has also been involved in a number of other adventures. He has climbed Mount Everest, sailed across the Atlantic Ocean, and raced in the Indy 500. He has also worked as a stuntman in several movies and television shows.

McDoogle's life has been full of adventure and excitement. He has lived life to the fullest and has never been afraid to take risks. He is an inspiration to everyone who loves adventure and wants to live life on their own terms.

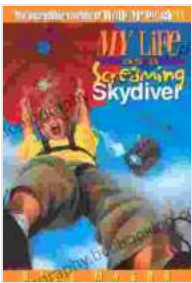

My Life As a Screaming Skydiver

My Life As a Screaming Skydiver is a fascinating and inspiring autobiography. McDoogle tells his story with humor and honesty, and he provides a unique insight into the world of skydiving. The book is full of breathtaking photographs and stories that will keep readers on the edge of their seat.
