The book, a labor of love by renowned photographer and historian Richard Holden, chronicles the province's nautical past through a captivating collection of over 125 stunning photographs. Each image tells a unique story, transporting readers to a bygone era when steamships plied the province's vast waterways, connecting communities and shaping the very fabric of Ontario's identity.

From the bustling docks of Toronto to the remote outposts of the northern lakes, Holden's lens captures the grandeur of Ontario's maritime heritage. We witness the majesty of passenger ships like the RMS Noronic, once the pride of the Great Lakes, and marvel at the ingenuity of icebreakers that braved the treacherous waters of Georgian Bay. The book also delves into the lives of the people who worked on these vessels, from the captains and crew to the passengers who experienced the wonders of Ontario's waterways firsthand.

More than just a collection of beautiful photographs, 'Saving Our History One Photo at a Time: Cruising Ontario 125' is a testament to the importance of preserving our cultural heritage. Through these images, we gain invaluable insights into the development of Ontario's transportation system, the growth of tourism, and the social and economic impact of maritime industries on the province.

A powerful tugboat plies the waters of an Ontario river, a vital workhorse in the province's maritime industry.

Holden's passion for Ontario's maritime history is evident on every page of this remarkable book. His extensive research and meticulous attention to detail have resulted in a work that is both visually stunning and historically informative. The result is a must-have for anyone interested in Ontario's past, photography enthusiasts, and those who appreciate the enduring power of preserving our shared heritage.

More than just a book, 'Saving Our History One Photo at a Time: Cruising Ontario 125' is an invitation to explore the rich tapestry of Ontario's maritime past. Through Holden's evocative imagery, we are transported back in time, experiencing the sights, sounds, and stories that shaped the province's connection to its waterways.

In an era where our collective memory is increasingly fragmented and fleeting, 'Saving Our History One Photo at a Time: Cruising Ontario 125' serves as a powerful reminder of the importance of preserving our past for future generations. It is a testament to the enduring power of photography to capture and convey the essence of our shared heritage, inspiring us to appreciate and protect the legacy that has been passed down to us.

Whether you are a lifelong resident of Ontario or a visitor eager to discover the province's rich history, 'Saving Our History One Photo at a Time: Cruising Ontario 125' is a captivating journey through time that will leave a lasting impression. Join Richard Holden as he navigates the waterways of Ontario's past, preserving our history one photograph at a time.
